Hello Varda and Allon,

I am sorry to be telling you this but there appears to be a leak in the kitchen ceiling, in the same place where the ceiling was patched and painted. I am not sure what the problem was last time but it appears to be connected with the rain. After the strong rain tonite, the bubble formed and the dripping started. As the rain comes down heavily the dripping becomes a stream so it's definitely connected. Something on the roof is leaking through. This is a serious problem and we should fix it urgently before it rains again.

Please call me when you get this tomorrow morning.

Regards,
Alex
